About The National Seminar

The National Seminar on "Decentralisation and Good Governance: Panchayat Raj System in the 21st Century" focuses on strengthening grassroots democracy by promoting participatory planning, enhancing transparency through digital governance, empowering women and marginalized groups, and ensuring fiscal autonomy for Panchayats. The importance of Gram Sabha-led development and Gram Panchayat Development Plans (GPDs) is highlighted as central to inclusive and need-based rural planning. Key discussions revolve around the integration of PRIs with centrally sponsored schemes such as MGNREGS, Jal Jeevan Mission, and Swachh Bharat Abhiyan; adoption of e-governance tools like e-Panchayat and e-Gram Swaraj; recommendations for strengthening State Finance Commissions; and the creation of an All-India Panchayat Raj Service to improve administrative efficiency. The seminar emphasizes that the future of democratic governance in India lies in empowering Panchayat Raj Institutions with the authority, resources, and capacity to deliver inclusive and accountable governance at the grassroots level. The seminar aims to provide participants with opportunities to engage in thought-provoking discussions, network with experts, and contribute to the ongoing dialogue around these critical issues.

Key Themes:

- Inclusive Development and Social Justice
- Panchayat Raj and Sustainable Rural Development: Integrating SDGs
- Role of Panchayats in Disaster Management and Climate Resilience
- Policy and Constitutional Dimensions of Panchayat Raj Institutions
- Decentralised Planning Initiatives in Karnataka
- Recent Trends in Panchayat Raj System: Opportunities and Challenges
