Kristu Jayanti College, in collaboration with the National Institute of Advanced Studies (NIAS), marked the 25th Europe Lecture Series on 'France's position in the Indo-Pacific region' which brought together scholars, students, and policymakers to explore critical geopolitical and academic themes.

The session featured Marc Abensour, ambassador of France for the Indo-Pacific, as the chief guest. Fr Augustine George CMI, principal, Kristu Jayanti College was also present. In his address, Ambassador Abensour emphasised the region's growing global significance as an economic and environmental pivot. He noted the Indo-Pacific's role as a centre of gravity in the global economy, driven by its expanding middle class, and highlighted its importance in addressing climate change and biodiversity preservation.
