Department of Journalism & Mass Communication

Department of Journalism & Mass Communication strives for excellence in media education, training and research through a curriculum which synergizes theoretical and practical components, and is delivered through multi-disciplinary approach. Our dedicated academicians along with media experts, professionals and researchers with global competencies train students in both media content and form to succeed in today’s challenging media scenario. Moreover, our interdisciplinary curriculum and flexible classrooms will create a real media experience with creative media productions, critical analysis, and entrepreneurialism.

Conference Theme [Gender Identity & Changing News Paradigms]

The third edition of the national media conference focuses on a broader theme- Gender Identity & Changing News Paradigms. This two-day national conference creates a platform for academicians, social scientists, journalists, research scholars and students from far and wide to investigate and debate on the diverse perspectives of the themes ranging from the construct of gender identities to its myriad representations in media. Moreover in the course of three decades women have entered journalism in India in substantial numbers, making their mark in every form of media. While they still continue to be a minority, the questions are often raised on their representations. The conference also stresses on the alteration of paradigms in the news and other media landscapes with the arrival of the digital age. The new-age news discourses have become complex in terms of its style but simpler in its presentation. The intertwining of the themes makes the conference multi-foci at one side and at the same time allows a multi disciplinary deliberation for the participants.
